

Hello,

Following the email from Biobourgogne concerning the public consultation to extend the aid for maintenance in AB.

I would like to give you my opinion as a member of a family Gaec who is breastfeeding with the production of self-consumed cereals.

We have been in organic form since the creation of the structure and my installation in 2006.

We have always believed in AB with serious doubts about the sustainability of traditional agriculture.

After our conversion we benefited from the aid until 2019, from the certification aid granted by the region in the first years and then to disappear.

And more or less large tax credit based on complicated calculations.

This has made it possible to compensate in part for the loss to be gained caused by this way of production and being able to remain competitive in order to ensure continued operation.

When the intention of the future CAP is no longer to support areas already converted, we seriously believe that we will leave organic farming, even if we still want to believe in it.

He hoped to be able to change the situation.

Cordially

Florent marchand
