

Review of the State aid instruments for agriculture, forestry and rural areas

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Introduction

The purpose of the present consultation is to invite public authorities and stakeholders to provide comments on the application of the EU State aid instruments for the agricultural and forestry sectors and for rural areas. The comments will be valuable input for the evaluation and review of those instruments.

An undertaking, which receives public support, gains an advantage over its competitors. Therefore, the Treaty generally prohibits State aid. However, the Commission may authorise State aid under certain conditions, notably for reasons of economic development or market failure. The Commission makes use of guidelines and regulations when assessing the aid in order to ensure that the assessment is transparent, consistent and coherent.

To simplify State aid procedures, the Council has empowered the Commission to adopt block exemption regulations exempting certain categories of aid from the notification requirement. A specific framework of rules has been set up for State aid control in the agricultural and forestry sectors and in rural areas. For the period 2014 to 2020 this encompasses the following instruments:

- EU Guidelines for State aid in the agricultural and forestry sectors and in rural areas 2014 to 2020 (the "Guidelines");
- Commission Regulation (EU) No 702/2014 declaring certain categories of aid in the agricultural and forestry sectors and in rural areas compatible with the internal market in application of Articles 107 and 108 of the TFEU (known as the Agricultural Block Exemption Regulation; the "ABER")

The validity of the agricultural state aid rules expires on 31 December 2020. Therefore they will be revised in view of establishing new Guidelines and new Block Exemption Regulation for the period 2021-2027.

The questionnaire covers five sections. Section I seeks your opinion on the overall performance of the current State aid rules, on the State aid objectives to be pursued and on the challenges for the future, including simplification possibilities. Sections II, III, and IV concern more specifically State aid issues in relation to, respectively, agriculture, forestry and non-agricultural activities in rural areas. Section V raises the question of whether there is EU added value in having detailed rules to steer the Commission's monitoring of State aid under the Treaty. Section V also allows you to comment on issues that are not otherwise addressed in the questionnaire.

7. What are your specific suggestions for simplification?

1500 character(s) maximum

CAP funded rural development programs run by national governments and nationally funded grant schemes are currently prevented from offering income compensation AND net monetary gains to forest owners who engage in the schemes due to the EU state-aid rules.

Adjusting the state-aid rules to allow for forest owners to receive net-monetary gains from engaging the schemes would expand markets and increase interest in participating in the schemes. Thus, it would increase competition and cause a more cost-effective production of environmental and biodiversity benefits by forest owners.

Therefore, we would suggest that the European Union Guidelines for State aid in the agricultural and forestry sectors and in rural areas for the period after 2020 increases or removes nominal and percentage caps for state aid intensity for investments improving the resilience and environmental value of forest ecosystems and forest biodiversity services.

European foresters have pointed out difficulties related to the requirements to submit the application, the lack of appropriate compensation for biodiversity, and inadequacy between long-term nature of forestry and seven years commitment period.

- The requirement to submit the application before the start of activity led to significant administrative cost and bureaucracy when the scheme covers large number of small individual projects/grants.
- The state aid rules allow compensation only for the additional costs and income forgone resulting from the commitments made. When aiming at biodiversity conservation, additional incentive should be allowed.
- Seven-years commitment period is too short in forestry: there should be a possibility to make contracts for longer commitment periods.

In addition, state aid schemes should be better taken into account the need to promote cooperation among forest owners for gathering management activities.

20. Based on your experience, would you agree with the following changes to the State aid rules?

	Agree strongly	Agree	No strong view	Disagree	Disagree strongly
No investment aid should be granted for purchase of land unless it serves environmental and climate objectives.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>

Investments in afforestation must be consistent with climate and environmental objectives as governed by sustainable forest management principles.	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
In case of cooperation: The maximum aid intensity for non-productive investments should be 100 % of the eligible costs.	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>
The scope of the ABER should be extended to forestry measures that are currently only covered by the Guidelines.	<input type="radio"/>	<input checked="" type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>	<input type="radio"/>

The approach should be to follow the principle of subsidiarity to the furthest possible extent and allow national governments to decide their own forest policies and support schemes. Especially where these schemes does not affecting cross-European wood product and service markets.
